GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY

States are struggling to keep up with rapidly shifting federal data and policy developments.

Emerging mandates, lack of cross-role coordination, and limited peer visibility leave states scrambling to interpret impact, coordinate internally, and respond effectively.

National organizations want to help—but without coordination, efforts remain fragmented.

Our Rapid Response Model

We help state leaders stay ahead of complex federal shifts by flagging what matters, creating space for cross-role coordination, and aligning ecosystem support.
